E-services

Global freight flows are complex, time-consuming and sensitive to risk. That is why we have invested in a range of e-service tools that make freight flows more transparent and easier to manage. Freight Monitor is our advanced online track & trace tool, which gives you easy access to statistics, reports and transport documents. Freight Planner is our online time/price and booking tool. It simplifies online booking of global freight services, provides delivery control and shows pricing, delivery options and service levels. Our Customer Portal provides easy access to all documents that relate to the overall relationship between us, including minutes of meetings, agreements and contact lists of key people.

'They understand our business'

Integrated solutions

Individually, our services are valuable to our customers. Taken together, they make a world of difference. By combining freight services, value-added services and e-services, we create integrated solutions that make our customers more competitive. By partnering with our customers, we develop solutions that meet their need for speed, cost, geographic distribution and pick-up and delivery points. No matter how complex the situation, we create a solution that works efficiently and effectively.

Introducing Geodis Wilson

What we can do for you

Geodis Wilson serves its clients on air and sea routes with integrated solutions that combine freight management services with advanced e-services and value-added services. These make our customers more competitive by increasing visibility and manageability and reducing risk and cost.

'The best balance between time and cost'

Freight services

Geodis Wilson offers air freight at three speeds for optimal time/cost ratios: Economy, Regular and Priority. Our own terminal handling, regular performance reports and door-to-door service guarantee you an unbroken chain of responsibility. Sea freight is handled as less-than-full-container shipments (Pipeline LCL) or full container loads (Pipeline FCL). We offer frequent and time-definite departures to and from the world's major ports, meaning transit times and arrival dates are set. As a major freight management company, we have access to sufficient capacity on busy routes.

Geodis Wilson also pioneered the Sea-Air Combined concept, which is faster than sea freight and more cost efficient than air freight. This service is available from 14 Asian countries to Europe, North America and Latin America: we ship freight to our terminal in Dubai (United Arab Emirates), Los Angeles (United States) and Incheon (South Korea) and then fly it to its final destination. Your Sea-Air cargo is the last to be loaded at the port of departure and the first to be unloaded, reducing transshipment time and damage risk.

'I just focus on my business'

Value-added services

Value-added services involve any value-added handling while the goods are in transit. Clients benefit from the release of tied-up capital by increasing the warehouse turnover rate, simplifying administration, and turning fixed overheads into floating costs. Such services include stocktaking, testing, pick & pack, labelling and bar coding, assembly and print-on-demand services. In addition, we offer customs clearance services, transport insurance, storage insurance. In a third-party logistics scenario, we assume responsibility for the entire logistics information management, including warehousing software systems, flow monitoring and order process management.
